2. Circulation

2-1. Counter

Bring the materials and present your Rikkyo ID card or Library card at the main counter.

2-2. Self check-out machines(except for videos/DVDs)

Also self check-out machines are available near the main counter. Follow the instruction on the screen to complete procedures.

† Non-circulation materials

Reference books / Journals (including newspapers, magazines, statistical publications and yearbooks, law reports, and microforms) / Rare books, semi-rare books, and materials on the Anglican Church / Microfilm materials / Other materials specified as "On Site Use"

† The security alarm goes off when you leave the Library with items without finishing checking out process. The Library staff may ask you to show your belongings in your bag.

† Prior use period

Prior use period is 2 weeks from the date of borrowing. When someone reserves the material that you borrowed, the Library may make a request of you returning them after the prior use period. If this case, please return the materials.

■ Returning Materials

Return materials to the main counter before or on the required due date. Use the outside book return facilities during off hours.

Materials may be returned at the circulation counter of any Rikkyo University Library (except for the Niiza Repository Library). If the return is delayed, you can't borrow materials for a certain period of time.

■ Renewals

The loan period may be renewed at the main counter or online. Bring the items with your Rikkyo ID card or Library card, or go through to "MyLibrary". Renewals must be done on or in advance of the due date. Recalled items can't be renewed. You can renew loan period only once on MyLibrary, or for more than twice at the main counter.

† The loan period for overdue materials and materials recalled by others can't be extended

■ Holds

Holds can be placed on checked out items by bringing a Request Memo form to the main counter. You may also make holds through OPAC of the detailed information screen of the item. Please note that holds cannot be made on items still on the shelves.

■ Ordering other Libraries materials

Materials at the Ikebukuro Library or the Niiza Repository Library can usually be ordered through OPAC or at the main counter.

■ Lost or damaged materials

If borrowers return the library material in such a condition that the Library decides to replace it, then the borrower will be responsible for replacing the material.

■ Using Interlibrary service

1. Items not in Rikkyo may be obtained from outside institutions. Interlibrary Loan is offered to Rikkyo undergraduate students, graduate students and faculty. The main counter accepts these requests.

Note: For most Interlibrary Loans, charges apply.

2. A request form may be obtained at the main counter or Library website.

† Service 1 can be applied for at the main counter. Services 1 and 2 can also be arranged through " MyLibrary" (for full-time faculty and graduate students only).

■ Using other university libraries under agreement

Searching

■ Call Numbers

A Call Number is like an address of the book which tells where the book is located in the Library. It also appears on the OPAC search result page and on the spine of the item. You can find materials since the Library shelves materials in order of Call Numbers. It consists of three parts; Classification Numbers, Author Mark, and Volumes.

The Library applies the Nippon Decimal Classification (NDC). This system uses numbers to arrange materials by subjects.

■ Tools

- OPAC (Catalog)
The online catalog, called OPAC (Online Public Access Catalog) is used to search materials in the Rikkyo University Library.
- Databases
The Library provides special and multi-disciplinary databases that are indispensable tools for university level research.
- READ(Rikkyo Educational and Academic Discovery : discovery service)
By searching resources in the Library (books, magazines, online databases, e-books, electronic journals, etc.) comprehensively from one interface (search window), you can quickly access to reliable information.

■ Workshops

Various workshops are held to improve your research skills. Please check the website for more information.
